SAXBYINTERVIEWS THE DUKE.

Mr. Manchester is Delighted at the Idea of Soon Showing Up in the Queen City---What He Looks Like.

NE WYORK, Dec. 10.-I ran across | your both taking a broiled lobster with Eugene Zimmerman in the Waldorfastoria the other day, and he seemed ever saw living. It was about 10 a. est lobsters obtainable. pl., but he wore a Tuxedo, a pair of asked: tavender trousers, a billy cock hat and s smile broad enough to be almost sux-

"How do you like your new son-in law?" I asked.

"Say, my boy," replied 'Gene, "he's a corker. Talk about your sons-in-law, but he's away ahead of anything you ever gazed on. It you'll wait a few minetes I'll give you a knock-down to him. He's taking a eau-de-cologne bath at

Be delighted, I'm sure," was all I sould stammer. After waiting for some little time, I was ushered into the real presence of the Duke himself.

'Awfully glad to see you, old chap,' he said, with that delightful English accent which has been the means of causing so many sulcides. Always glad to see any one from dear old Cincinnati, you knew. It's awfully jolly to be back in the Stites agine, and papa has been so awfully beastly kind ever since we landed. 'Ave yer seen my dorg? 'Ere, Prince! Come 'ere! and show yourself. Es the finest dorg I ever saw. One of my wedding presents from the old boy, yer know. Blow me, but 'e's a beaut! 'Ow do I like America? Say, chapple, that's on 'ell of a question to awsk. 'Ov could I 'elp liking it with such a bride and such a bloody fine father-in-law? 'Ave a drine?'

Mr. Zimmerman here explained that His Grace meant "Have a drain?" which is English for "What'll you

William Angus Drogo Montagu, Duke of Manchester, is also Marquis of Ratcliff Highway, Earl of Whitechapel, a member of the board of education of Seven Dials, Silver Stick in Waiting to Sir Roger de Coverly, Assistant Chapman of the Oxford Music hall. Until recently he was a bachelor, but his alliance with Miss Zimmerman gives him the privilege of becoming a full fledged married man.

He is a decided blonde, with fine British brunette features. His clothes are, at present, cut in the free and easy fashion so prevalent among London swells, but on his arrival in the Queer City he will meet his father-in-law's tailor at the reception and be togged out in something that will really fit his station-also his legs. What I like about His Giblets is that he makes one feel entirely at home in his company, and, in the course of our conversation,

"I tell you I'm 'aving a bleeding good time 'ere in New York, Yesterday we 'ad twenty-seven meals in less than nine hours. Everybody is trying to do all they can to show me honor. "And I'm proud of my son-in-law," replied Eugene, as he slipped a $1,000 bill in Manchester's vest pocket.

"Not while I'm on earth," shricked Zimmerrman, as he threw a twentydellar gold piece on the counter, "and may, Manchester, me boy, keep the change."

His Grace put that amount in his other vest pocket, and demanded that he he allowed to pay for a smoke.

"Now look here, William Angus Dro Fo Montagu Manchester. I promised Your wife, Mrs. William Angus Droge Montagu Manchester (nee Zimmerman) that you couldn't spent a red so long as I lived. and offered twenty bull pups for sale. "How much?" asked Mr. Zimmerman..

The man answered: "$1,500 apiece." "Send 'em up to the room."

"Oh, but ain't 'e koind," cried the son-in-law. Here the interview ended, as Mrs. Manchester sent in a card which read, "Don't you think it's about time you and the old man were coming up stairs? Yours truly. The Duchess." His Grace gracefully excused himself. As he was leaving the room his father-in-iaw called him to one side, and whispered: "I see you haven't a watch. Take mine."

Inside the timepiece was a grand piano, on one of the pedals of which was engraved.

In fact, the buying over-bore the selling, and there are more net gains than losses as a result of the day's operations. The buying seemed to come from uncovered shorts, judg-ing from those stocks which have suffered most from recent depression were in foremost definand to-day. This was notably true of the steel group, led object of a prolonged raid by the bears, at an expense of twenty points in the value of the stocks. A rally of 4½ points at the extreme high point today therefore seems moderate. Other members of the steel group moved in point all around, with the exception of steel and wire. The latter stock was under pressure. While it recovered at one time to above Saturday's level, it closed weak, and effected the whole group. Meetings of the directors, both of the Tennessee Coal Company and the Steel & Wire Company were watched for developments, but there were none of importance, so far as the public on the dividend by the Tennessee company to refute the recent rumors that it would be passed. The Steel & Wir directors ordered the payment of the

The Eric stocks were much less active, although the first preferred and second preferred were at one time advanced 11/01% per cent respectively. The Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati & St. Louis stocks rose 314 per cent on a light demand, which, however, brought out very little stock. The minimum rate for call money advanced to 5 per cent; and ruled from that to 6 per cent. There was no sign of stringency, and renewals were easily effected, but all lenders held stiffly for the advanced rates. The opinion has been in Wall street that no relief was to be expected by gold imports, owing to the large requirements of foreign money markets, but the violent decline in foreign exchange to-day, both on London and on continental points, aroused renewed conjecture on that Posted rates for sterling were and the actual rates for short and long sterling fell 1/2 per cent, and for cables 1/3 per cent.
